Shrimp scarce

A worker at Terry's Seafood in Bayou Caddy weighs shrimp as they come off the conveyor belt. Initial reports on the start of the shrimping season claim the catch was way down from previous years and shrimp prices will escalate quickly. (Echo staff photo by Ed Lepoma)

Weather keeps shrimp count low

BY ED LEPOMA

High winds, hard rain and rough seas affected the catch as commercial and recreational shrimpers began returning to docks after three days into the season.

Department of Marine Resources scouts got an aerial report at 6 a.m. Tuesday, the official start of the Mississippi shrimping season, and reported about 800 boats out in the Mississippi Sound.

Officers said more Louisiana shrimpers were spotted than usual due to poor catches in that state caused by excessive amounts of fresh water from the Mississippi River.

The U.S. Coast Guard and conservation officers with the Department of Wildlife, Fisheries and Parks were also kept busy opening day, reporting no lives lost, but at least eight boats sunk in the rough seas.

Keath Ladner, co-owner of Terry's Seafood, stood on his loading dock at Bayou Caddy and shook his head in disbelief at the small catches coming in.

"This southwest wind is poison on the shrimp," said Ladner.

"It causes them to bury into the mud, and the lightning and thunder doesn't help, either."

Two refrigerated trucks with their motors running stood idling at the dock.

"Last year, as soon as two pulled out, two others would be loading. It was like a traffic jam," said Ladner.

Ladner said boats that last year brought in an average of 35 to 40, 100-pound boxes of

Longo, Fleuriet in clash

BY RICHARD MEEK

A discussion over the claims docket nearly led to a Waveland alderman being forcefully removed from a board meeting on Wednesday night.

Tempers grew hostile between Aldermen Jay Fleuriet and Tommy Longo over a $2,255 claim on the docket for final payment to Jackson engineer Ray Eaton for his work on the Waveland pier extension. Longo was acting as mayor pro tempore because Mayor John Mason was honoring a previous commitment.

At one point, Longo told Fleuriet "you're acting like a child" and threatened to have him ejected from the meeting.

Fleuriet questioned how the payment could be made when "there is no work done. It's not a good decision to pay him for everything we owe him when the work is not even started yet."

Public Utilities Director Steve Landry and Long explained to Fleuriet that Eaton is only the engineer, and not the contractor responsible for the actual construction of the work.

enabling the city to add a 200-foot extension to the pier, located at the foot of Terrace lane. The extension is scheduled to include a vending area and possibly a bait shop.

Fleuriet is a proponent of the pier extension but has repeatedly questioned why construction has not yet begun, as well as challenging Eaton's fees. He insisted on Wednesday night that the board had adopted a $7,500 cap on his fees.

Past minutes show that on Feb. 21, 1996, Fleuriet and the other aldermen adopted a resolution that placed a $7,000 cap on Eaton's fees for work with the Department of Marine Resources on a zoning change for the pier area. The zoning change was required before the project could move forward.

Several months later, the aldermen, Fleuriet included, voted to adopt a package of final plans and fee schedule including a $20,000 cap on Eaton's engineering fees for the design of the pier. Fleuriet is insistent he did not see that package.

Eaton's engineering fees came in at $17,900, although $1,500 was for an added expense demanded by the Secretary of State's office.

Both Longo and alderman Louis Smolensky said Fleuriet's objection to Eaton was personal. At one point during the fracas, Smolensky told Fleuriet, "You don't like the man."

Fleuriet drew the ire of the aldermen in December when he

Favre hearing set

BY BETSY GAGNET

Scott Favre has been transferred to the Harrison County jail pending at least one hearing scheduled for Monday.

Favre's attorney, Joe Sam Owen, said a hearing will be held tomorrow to determine if the court will entertain a hearing on whether Favre violated his house arrest.

Owen said the hearing on Monday is procedural in nature and will determine whether Favre is entitled to what Owen called "a real substantive hearing."

In May, the court found Favre violated the house arrest ordered in March as part of the sentence he received when he pleaded guilty to drunken driving causing death.

The sentence, handed down by Judge Robert H. Walker, gave Favre 15 years in prison with 14 suspended and the re-

Lampley anxious to get to work

BY BETSY GAGNET

Next month Connie Payne Lampley will be one of the new faces at the Bay St. Louis City Council table.

Lampley fought hard to win the seat for Ward 3, surviving challenges in a runoff and the general election after defeating incumbent Tom Favre in the primary.

A lifelong resident of the ward she will represent, Lampley said she hopes to make a difference for the people who are her neighbors.

Lampley has one daughter, Janell, 16, and is married to Gregory Lampley.

"Being born and reared in Ward 3, the only change I have seen over the years has been deterioration," Lampley said, explaining why she decided to run for the council. "I wanted to make a difference and bring a change for the children and tax-paying citizens (of Ward 3). They deserve it."

"I know it's going to be a lot of work ... but it's something I wanted, something I worked hard for ..."

Commission recommends to ban campers

BY ED LEPOMA

The Hancock County Planning Commission has recommended amending the county's newly enacted zoning ordinance to ban campers and recreational vehicles altogether in areas zoned for single family residential living.

And, persons wanting to put campers in other areas of the county must first apply to the Commission for a "conditional use," which would limit the time the vehicles could stay on a lot.

Only three of the five commissioners were present Thursday afternoon for a recess meeting, but Chairman Wayne Ducomb, vice chairman Skip Marsh and Commissioner Chris Ladner voted to send the "get tough" legislation on to the Board of Supervisors. The Board is expected to get the amendments at its meeting

A new book and an exhibit of photographs of William Faulkner are being celebrated in Bay St. Louis. The exhibit, "Faulkner: A Centennial Celebration," is part of the centennial celebration of the Nobel Prize-winning author's birth.

Dain, an ardent admirer of Faulkner, is one of the few photographers to have taken pictures of the writer at Rowan Oak. The significance was not lost on Dain, who considered himself fortunate just to get in to see Faulkner.

"I never thought I'd get to the man," said Dain. "I know enough about him to know he wanted to be left alone. But, I just sucked in my breath and did what I could do with the camera. I considered it a lucky, lucky day."

The book, Faulkner's World, Co-published by the University of Mississippi's Center for the Study of Southern Culture and the University Press of Mississippi, Faulkner's World: The Photographs of Martin J. Dain will be available in September.

Dain's images of Faulkner were originally published by Random House in the book Faulkner's World: Yoknapatawpha. This 1964 book is now a collector's item worth anywhere from $80 to $125, according to Richard Howarth, owner of Oxford's Square Books.

The 112-page Faulkner's World contains 100 duotone photos, many of which were in the earlier book. New images, primarily of Faulkner and his funeral, have been added.

"Dain's images emphasize the older, more traditional look of the community," said the book's editor Tom Rankin — an Ole Miss associate professor of art and Southern studies — in the introduction, which contains a recent interview with Dain.

"When he came to Mississippi, he brought along his own vision of Yoknapatawpha, one derived from his personal understanding of Faulkner's work. He wanted to 'evolve' in images the feelings that the literature had instilled in him. Faulkner never saw and never felt what prepared him to do for the book.

In the book's foreword, Oxford writer Larry Brown says Dain's photographs "bring to mind Brown's own past — 'another time in the place I still call home.' These images 'preserve the times and people in the best and most satisfying way. They can never fade away now, cannot slide back into memory and be forgotten forever."

The almost 8,000 85mm, black-and-white images Dain made of Faulkner, Oxford and Lafayette County are owned now by the center and are housed in its southern Media Archive. Included in the collection are interior photographs of Faulkner's home, some of the few taken while Faulkner was living there, and approximately 150 different images of Faulkner, his horses and his dogs near the stable at Rowan Oak. Dain also documented daily life among blacks and whites throughout the county.

Faulkner's World: The Photographs of Martin J. Dain will be distributed through bookstores at a retail price of $40. A number of signed, limited editions will be available from the Ole Miss Center for the Study of Southern Culture. For more information, call the Center at (601) 232-5993.

Traveling Exhibits:
Faulkner's World
Two sets of Faulkner's World: The Photographs of Martin J. Dain, A Traveling Exhibition Celebrating William Faulkner's 100th Birthday, are available for touring from the University of Mississippi.

One exhibit is funded by the Mississippi Humanities Council and can be displayed in the state's libraries, galleries, cultural centers, and colleges and universities for two years. The second, funded by the Appalachian Regional Commission, is available for the 13-state ARC region, which includes all of West Virginia and portions of Alabama, Georgia, Kentucky, Maryland, Mississippi, New York, North Carolina, Ohio, Pennsylvania, South Carolina, Tennessee and Virginia.

Curated and produced by the Center for the Study of Southern Culture, the exhibit also takes 40 black-and-white photographs of Faulkner and is accompanied by a booklet and a museum guide. The exhibit and the book are available.

"The very earliest photo is a traveling exhibition of my images from the early 1960s in Mississippi," said Dain. "I still read Faulkner, and I still think about my time attempting to write Faulkner's world. I can't remember a time when I didn't read Faulkner."

For information and to reserve an exhibit, contact Tom Rankin at (601) 232-5993.

King Arthur to highlight summer reading

The Procrastinators' Society of Serious Theatre Inc. (PSST!) and professional storyteller Chris Vinsonhaler will highlight this week's program in the Hancock County Library System's 1997 Summer Reading Program, according to David Woodburn, public services coordinator.

Vinsonhaler will present 'Dragons! Dragons!' in an exciting hour of storytelling and music for children Tuesday, June 24, at 1:30 p.m. at the Kiln Library.

PSST! will perform at the Bay St. Louis Library Wednesday, June 25, at 10:30 a.m., reading stories of King Arthur and from The Hobbit.

On Thursday, June 26, at 10:30 a.m., they will read the Russian folk tale, The Firebird, and cutting from George Bernard Shaw's Androcles and the Lion.

Vinsonhaler is director of Inspire!, a storytelling camp hosted by the Walter Anderson Museum, and she is director of the Great Oaks Storytelling Festival in Ocean Springs. She performs regularly in area schools, and is editor of the recently published Pearls: Memories of Hancock County.

Her work as a storyteller has taken her from Alaska to Panama. National performances include conferences for the American Library Association and the International Children's Literature Association.

PSST! began with five friends who enjoy hearing the written work read aloud. Moving from a parlor setting in various homes, the group extended its talents to the public by accepting invitations from the St.

Martin Public Library, the Storyteller's Festival in Ocean Springs and more.

Readers for these performances will include Henry LeBatard, Sue Truesdell, Robert Newton, Joy Brown, Altha Delacruz and Chester Delacruz.

All members of the group have been involved in amateur theatre on the Mississippi Gulf Coast and as school teachers on one level or another at one time or another.

LeBatard is a published author and poet; Truesdell writes children's stories and makes frequent public appearances; Newton has taught literature on a community college level; and Delacruz has written and adapted plays for public performances and prepares the scripts for PSST!

Each child participating in the program will receive a reading record on which to record books read, and those who complete the program will receive a certificate. Books may be checked out at all three branches of the library system.

A library card is required to check out all books. A certificate and goodie bag will be presented to each participant who completes the program. Awards will be presented the week of July 1.

For information, contact David Woodburn, Bay St. Louis-Hancock County Public Library, 467-5282; Sandra Ladner, Kiln Library, 255-1724; or Donna Hutchings, Waveland Library Literacy Center, 467-9240.

These services and other programs of the library system are funded by the Cities of Bay St. Louis and Waveland and the Hancock County Board of Supervisors.

Street improvements underway

BY BETSY GAGNET
Work has begun on improvements to the 600 block of Carroll Avenue in Bay St. Louis.

The project entails street widening, drainage, and improvements to the turning radius on Pine Street to accommodate school buses coming from Bay High School, according to Ron Vanney, Director of Public Works.

Williams Paving Company is doing the work on the project which will cost approximately $80,000, Vanney said.

Work is expected to be completed before school begins.

Oyster season closes

The 1996-97 Mississippi commercial oyster season closed Saturday with a larger harvest than the previous season and the highest since 1983, despite fewer harvest days.

The recent season opened Oct. 6 and closed approximately one month later when a red tide algal bloom moved across state shellfish growing waters.

Officials with the Mississippi Department of Marine Resources released preliminary figures showing 358,102 total sacks harvested this season compared to 326,037 last season.

A further breakdown lists 326,113 sacks harvested by dredging and 31,989 by tonging in the 96-97 season with 315,293 harvested by dredging and 10,744 by tonging in 1995-96.

The total number of days open for dredging in 1996-97 was 110 compared to 186 in 1995-96 and 115 days open for tonging in 96-97 compared to 141 in 95-96.

"Prior to this year's oyster season opening, conditions of the reefs were favorable," said the Department's Fisheries Director W. S. Perret. "However, the red tide closure and the opening of the Bonnet Carré Spillway presented unforeseen obstacles that the industry and its fishermen had to successfully overcome to reach this high production level."

It's a good tribute to our fishermen, who, despite these detrimental natural occurrences, were able to harvest this volume of oysters through their hard work and perseverance. Hopefully, this trend will continue."

Historic oaks on Scenic Drive in Pass Christian will shade runners, walkers, and strollers during the St. Paul Seafood Festival 5K Classic, 1/2 Mile Kid's Run and 1 Mile Stroll July 19.

Rev. John R. McGrath has been the run's motivating force during his five years as race chair and has seen consistent growth in the number of participants up to 261 during the 1996 event.

The run, a Gulf Coast Running Club event, is held on the Saturday of the parish's annual Seafood Festival. All monies go to support St. Paul Elementary School.

Awards to 5K winners are unique pieces of pottery made by Coast artisans and provided by Hillyer House. This year's commemorative mugs will be awarded to the category winners.

Director needed

The Hancock County Youth Task Force to Save Our Children is in need of a director to handle the organization's summer programs, Geraldine Lang, chairman reports.

The position is for summer camp and also on a part-time basis during the rest of the year.

Persons interested in more particulars on the position may contact Lang at 467-9586.

Resumes are to be sent to: Hancock County Youth Task Force, c/o Geraldine Lang, 550 State St., Bay St. Louis, MS 39520.

The 1-Mile Stroll was designed for the 1996 race for parishioners who wanted to participate but could not run the 5K distance. The stroll is open to all rather than just parishioners.

The after-race party for participants will be held on the lawn at The Inn At The Pass. The historic bed and breakfast will set the tone for the awards presentation. Participants will enjoy listening to live music and refreshing themselves with fresh fruit, soft drinks and jamablaya.

Each participant will receive the 1997 St. Paul Seafood Festival 5K Classic t-shirt. The t-shirt is a reproduction of an original watercolor by Kimberly Wittmann-Necaise. Also, the first 300 participants will receive a goody bag containing a sports towel and other things from the Coast area.

This year a limited edition, numbered color copied prints of the original watercolor by Necaise will be offered for $20. The double-matted prints will be signed and numbered by Necaise.

A total of 150 prints will be offered to the public. The number was chosen in conjunction with the 150th celebration of St. Paul Parish.

Registration will begin at least an hour before race time (8 a.m., July 19) at St. Paul Catholic Church, Scenic Drive, Pass Christian.

For information and race applications, call Leonard Vergunst at 875-6855, John R. McGrath, 452-4686 or Catherine Myers at 452-3560.

REFLECTIONS ON LIFE

By Father Jerome
LeDoux, SVD

Dr. William Tulloch, Office Upstairs, was a most ironic sign to be posted on the grave of someone who throughout his life quietly but firmly professed to be a confirmed atheist.

Yet, the posting of the sign showed exactly what the townspeople thought of a man who had given his life to them. That "atheist" did everything and more than a stout believer in God would hope to do during this earthly sojourn.

Sure, Jesus invited us to sell whatever we own, to give the proceeds to the poor, and to come, follow him. But how do we account for someone who did not believe in Jesus or God, yet did everything Jesus commanded us to do?

William Tulloch started out in the mold of rakish Augustine of Hippo, Africa. Just as the great bishop of Hippo did, he came in off the streets, stopped indulging himself, and began to serve the needy with all his strength and resources.

It was more than a matter of serving all his needy sisters and brothers. Confounding strong believers in God still more, Tulloch constantly displayed all the heroic manners, modesty, respect and fortitude found in the saints of God.

So, how do we explain Tulloch's conduct theologically, since we follow the thought of Paul throughout his letters, stating that we cannot do anything good except through the grace of God? Of course, Paul expanded the thought of Jesus.

When we learn from William Tulloch to the myriad dedicated activists around the world who seem to be almost completely out of touch with God, certainly with formal religion, we run into the same troubling question in our pursuit of God.

"I am the vine, you are the branches. Whoever remains in me will bear much fruit, because without me you can do nothing" (Jn. 15: 5).

"How can you say good things when you are evil? For from the fullness of the heart the mouth speaks. A good person brings forth good out of a store of goodness, but an evil person brings forth evil out of a store of evil" (Mt. 12:34-35).

"By the grace of God I am what I am" (1 Cor. 15:10).

According to the teaching of Jesus, the True Vine, William Tulloch had to be, at the very least, a closet branch in the great vine which is Jesus Christ, for, without attachment to the vine, Tulloch had no power to do anything good.

This all backs up the centuries-old theological teaching that God does not deny grace to anyone who follows his natural reason faithfully, who does everything in his power to accomplish what he considers to be the right things.

Sometimes we have to wonder how so-called dyed-in-the-wool Christians or other firm believers can be so apathetic, complacent and unconcerned about the plight of others. After all, aren't they supposed to be on fire with God's grace?

By the same token, so many activists who virtually disdain the mention of God, religion and, especially, church, are on fire, consumed with the secular city and everyone and everything connected with the furtherance of the secular city.

Yes, I do think many of them, just as William Tulloch, are closet branch members who are pursuing the ideals and commands of Jesus even while eschewing them.

While encouraging activities to bring their fire to church, we dare churchgoers to catch some of the activities' fire.

EVERYDAY RECIPES

.... Love, Patsy
(Patsy Powell)

Good Morning Y'all . . .
Yesterday I received in the mail a notification of the Pillsbury Cookoff as I entered it last year. I guess they wanted me to try again.

Remember that good old saying, If you don't succeed the first time, try try again . . . well I am . . . you should also.

One day I might get a call from you and you would say, "Patsy, you inspired me and I tried also, and I feel good about it, even if I don't win . . . just because I tried and it made me feel good about myself."

It surely made me feel good about myself that I took that extra step, made the effort to build that self-esteem.

This recipe originated from a recipe that was in the newspaper that I "Pillsbury Cookoff" added to and made it extra special. I won in my mind.

Bet it would be good with chopped pecans in the cake also . . . you know my mind continues to create and wander.

Talk about good, you'll be the talk of the party or your own family, because always remember, who is better than you or your family and that is why this recipe is called Choco-Cherry King and Queen Cake.

We could also include the "rug-rats" if need be. Because they make our world go around, kids are great. If you didn't know what "rug-rats" are, they are our loves of our lives, our kids.

See you next time . . . Love,
Patsy

CHOCO-CHERRY KING & QUEEN CAKE

1 package Pillsbury Moist Supreme Cake Mix - Devil Food
4 eggs, beaten
1 can crushed and 1 can sliced pineapple (small)
1 jar cherries, small
4 tbsp. cherry juice
1 can Red ruby cherry pie filling

Spray vegetable oil for pans
— 1 - 8"x1½" and 1 - 9"x1½" cake pans

Icing:

1 8-oz. package Neufachtel cheese, softened (style of cream cheese)
8 tbsp. powdered sugar
3 tbsp. crushed pineapple

Mix cake mix, beaten eggs, pie filling, 4 tbsp. crushed pineapple by hand, to keep cherries from breaking too much.

Spray cake pans with vegetable spray. Pour batter into the cake pans. Bake at 350 for 40 minutes or until done in your oven.

Cool 10 min. in pans. Cool on wire racks.

Icing: Mix cream cheese (Neufachtel), 3 tbsp. crushed pineapple, and powdered sugar.

Poke holes in cakes and pour 2 tbsp. cherry juice over each cake. Now put large cake layer on cake plate and put icing on top where it runs onto the sides a little. Now put the other layer on top and do the same thing.

Put the pineapple slices (4) on top of the cake, a cherry in the middle of each, 3 in the center of the cake and one in between where the rings of pineapple meet. Put some cherries along the bottom layer, that is sticking out.

Fit for a King and Queen!
Option: Drizzle chocolate on top, neatly, and let it run down the sides.

More on surviving wedding costs

Q. Our son is engaged to be married in a few months. Right now, my husband and I can't agree with him on a rehearsal dinner that fits our budget and suits his needs. We know that the groom's family traditionally pays the cost of a rehearsal supper and we are happy to host this event.

However, we can't afford to put on an affair that is in line with the elaborate wedding and reception planned by the bride's family. We are retired and feel that cashing in part of our retirement nest egg would be unwise.

My son and his fiancée want a cocktail hour followed by a sit-down meal for 40 to 50 people. Guests would include our family, the bride's immediate and extended family, the wedding party, their dates or spouses, and several other friends traveling to the wedding from out of town.

They say that this is typical with other large wedding they have attended. I did some tentative pricing and was amazed at the price of a formal meal for this many people. My son is frustrated because he feels we are unwilling to live up to the traditional responsibility of the family of the groom.

We recognize that we are conservative spenders but, this doesn't mean we want to shirk our responsibilities in helping with our child's wedding. Can you tell us how rehearsal dinners are customarily handled and what it is usually spent so that we can be sure we are making the right decision?

A. The dilemma you have expressed is not that uncommon, though I realize this fact makes it no less distressing. Because the bride's family puts on the actual wedding, their style and price range tends to set the tone for all wedding functions including the rehearsal dinner.

However, this is just the beginning in the merger of two families. Both bride and groom must learn to accept and respect both families, limitations included.

Regardless of customs, it should go without saying, the luxury of a beautiful wedding and all the associated festivities, does not justify liquidating funds needed for retirement income.

Your son and his new wife will learn what it takes to live within their own budget very soon. They must respect your need to live within yours.

A little history on rehearsal dinner customs may help you reach a suitable compromise with your son and his fiancée. The original post-rehearsal tradition was not to wine and dine the wedding guests at a formal dinner. The family of the groom did not host the event.

Prior to the past few decades, the bride's family hosted a tea for the wedding party after the rehearsal. It was an afternoon affair, not a late evening one. Tea and finger foods were served. Anyone participating in or viewing the rehearsal was invited to the tea. As the tradition evolved, the family of the groom assumed responsibility for food following the rehearsal. This relieved the bride's family from one of the many costs and responsibilities associated with a wedding.

The original tradition, therefore, allows some flexibility in how one might feed guests after the rehearsal. You might suggest a tea. It can be very formal yet not as costly as a dinner. The wedding party is not obligated to be out as late as they might at a cocktail hour and dinner. Liquor is not necessary at a tea, thus lowering costs considerably.

If the tea is not acceptable to your son, there are still ways to serve a meal without the costs of a formal dinner. Look for a place in which you can serve a buffet-style meal. Fees for renting a site can cost $1,600, but church fellowship halls, local community centers and some private establishments are available for minimal costs.

If the wedding is not during a peak season, you may be able to negotiate a good price for a catered meal. If liquor is served, substitute sparkling wine for a full bar. Use flowers that are in season and available in abundance to decorate.

USM hosts economic development meeting

Tourism, gaming, hurricane recovery, technology, environmental concerns and leadership were among topics of discussion during a recent conference of economic development representatives from eight Southern states.

The participants gathered on the Mississippi Gulf Coast for a regional meeting of the Economic Development Administration's University Centers program.

Hosted by the University of Southern Mississippi's Center for Community and Economic Development, the conference included a tour of the John C. Stennis Space Center. University center projects from throughout the region also were profiled.

Richard Taylor, director of Hattiesburg's convention and Visitor's Bureau, commended USM's center for its "terrific role" in spearheading the Southeast Mississippi Tourism Association, a regional tourism initiative encompassing 18 counties.

"In 1993, the center recognized that tourism, spurred by the gaming industry, had tremendous economic impact for this area of our state," Taylor said. "The center put together a task force of elected officials, state tourism representatives, chamber members and convention and visitor's bureau directors. (That group) ultimately became the Southeast Mississippi Tourism Association."

"The Center and USM had a terrific role in that, and a very appropriate role, to provide unbiased development and spearheading of that campaign," Taylor said, noting that tourism contributed more than $100 million to the city of Hattiesburg last year.

"This project was an outgrowth of earlier work done for the Southeast Mississippi Resource Conservation and Development Association and the R&D group really supported us in this," noted Annette Jones, assistant manager of the USM Center.

With an eye toward the eco-tourism trend of the late 1980s and early '90s, center interns and staff members surveyed SMTA's 18-county area to identify opportunities for rural tourism.

From that, the group developed a marketing program. SMTA brought in rural tourism expert Gale Trussell of the Tennessee Valley Authority to provide initial training. Recent focus has been on hospitality training.

"Looking at the southeast Mississippi area, with Hattiesburg on the north end and the Gulf Coast on the south end, we all realized that broad-based tourism is crucial to our continued success, to the health and stability of our economy," Taylor said.

The southeastern states are the most popular U.S. region for tourism, he noted. In Mississippi alone, tourism is a $2.5 billion industry exclusive of gaming, and it employs more than 42,000 people.

Hattiesburg's CVB has "been able to utilize a number of interns that have been provided through the center and it has been vital to us," Taylor added. He noted that Hattiesburg's efforts to recruit athletes for pre-Olympic training and acclimation prior to the 1996 Olympic Games — which won the city numerous accolades, including the nation's top tourism public relations honor, the Edward L. Bernays Award — "began with research conducted by a graduate student intern provided through the center."

Edward Jones celebrates 10-year anniversary

Craig Foster, the Bay St. Louis Edward Jones investment representative, is celebrating his firm's 10-year local anniversary.

"After learning how Jones brokers were required to meet 2,000 members of a community before even being able to open an office, I know this was the right firm for me," Foster said.

"Personal service for individual investors is a key to the success and longevity of Jones. That's our basic principle."

The fact that Foster works in the same community in which he lives is unique among financial-services firms, most of which do their business by phone. By establishing one-person brokerage offices in rural and suburban communities, however, Edward Jones enables its representatives to establish one-on-one business relationships with its investors.

"I've enjoyed doing business the old-fashioned way — in person," Foster said. "And I am looking forward to many more years serving the investment needs of my friends, neighbors and business associates."

With more than 3,400 offices in all 50 states, Edward Jones is the largest financial-services firm in the nation in terms of offices. Plans are underway to expand to 10,000 offices in the next decade.

Still, Jones is the only firm that serves individual investors exclusively, offering a variety of investments, including certificate of deposit, taxable and tax-free bonds, stocks and mutual funds. The firm traces its roots to 1871 and today serves more than 2 million customers.

Commission

July 7, and they can concur in them, approve them or water the regulations down somewhat.

The Commission first held a public hearing in early June to address the camper problem, which residents in Shoreline Park and other areas claim is worsening. A specific definition of camper/trailers and recreational vehicles, as well as guidelines for a recreational vehicle park, were left out of the Comprehensive Zoning Ordinance adopted by supervisors last January.

No one came to speak for or against the amendments when commissioners held the public hearing, but Thursday there were some Shoreline residents in the room, who supported the proposed legislation.

Hessell recommended that recreational vehicles and campers/trailers be banned in all single family areas, and zones in the county that are set aside for commercial and industrial purposes. They would be allowed as a "conditional use" in two and multi-family residential areas and in all parts of the county zoned A-1, Agricultural.

Recreational vehicle parks would only be allowed as a "conditional use" in two and multi-family residential areas, in A-1 Agricultural, and in neighborhood commercial areas. The Commission would have to provide a special exemption to allow an RV park in a highway commercial corridor.

Before the vote, Marsh, said he felt the tougher legislation was a step in the right direction.

He said by making applicants come before the Commission to put campers in other areas, the county can get a better handle on the situation.

Present federal regulations governing the vehicles in floodplain areas of the county allow a stay of 180 days, but the consensus among commissioners was to allow them to stay in spot for no longer than 90 days, then they must pull out.

"We will consider each as they come before us," said Marsh, indicating in certain instances, the stay might be shortened.

Seve Marino, who said he has been fighting to get campers out of Shoreline Park (now zoned single family) for several years, said he supported the amendments, but he also wants the planning commission and supervisors to address the lack of a sewerage system in the area.

"Do what you've got to do to get sewerage in Shoreline Park," said Marino.

The Commission's attorney, John Scaffide, also directed building and zoning enforcement officer Willie Gavney to begin taking legal action against those in Shoreline Park and other areas who are staying in campers past the 180-day limit or violating other floodplain regulations.

Specifically, Gavney asked for a decision on how to handle one particular Shoreline Park landowner in violation of several regulations since 1994.

Last January, a Circuit Court Judge upheld the planning commission and supervisor's denial for variances, but no further action was taken. Under the federal law, violators are subject to a fine of $100 per day for each violation.

"Go ahead and file charges against him in Justice Court," said Scaffide. "Let a judge cite him, then begin to fine him."

Commissioners tabled until their next meeting any action against Bernice Dedeaux, another Shoreline Park camper. She had requested a waiver to build a gazebo on site, and put in an additional camper. No accessory structures are allowed in floodplain areas, unless there is a permanent residence on site. A public hearing on the matter will be readvertised and is scheduled for July 17.

Gavney said he ordered construction stopped on the gazebo, "but they put it up anyway, then filed for the waiver." He said there was approval for only one recreational vehicle on site, "and now they have three out there."

In other business, Commissioners approved a "conditional use" that would allow Sonja Ladner to open a poolroom/arcade and snackbar on Rocky Hill-Dedeaux Road not far from the proposed county Livestock Arena, in an area zoned A-1 Agriculture.

Gavney said he had inspected the 2,600-square foot building, notified residents, and there were no objections from neighbors.

gave a copy of Eaton's pier plan to Waveland architect Allison Anderson to critique. Anderson was critical of Eaton's work, and at one point, there was some discussion that the entire project may be jeopardized.

At the time, Fleuriet said he did not want to "rubber stamp" Eaton's plans. He went so far as to charge that some tenets of the plans were illegal.

Some of the changes Anderson proposed had already been completed, but she admitted she was unaware of those changes. At the time, there was a possibility that Anderson could face ethical charges but none were filed.

In February, Fleuriet again questioned Eaton's fees. At that meeting, Fleuriet made the statement that the city had spent "$11,000 and had nothing to show for it but a sign."

At the time, Longo told him "that's about the silliest thing I've ever heard."

On Wednesday, Longo told Fleuriet "you don't understand the scope of the work being done. (Eaton) is not relinquishing his responsibility for the pier. Your personal problems have hindered this project over and over."

Landry explained that Eaton was asking for payment for field work and the design, and that some followup inspections would still have to be completed. Eaton, who helped design the original pier some 20 years ago, has taken soil samples, completed the blue prints and worked together with DMR to have all of the permitting completed.

"I don't want to spend money for work not completed," Fleuriet said. "I'm Republican and you'll be Democrats."

"You kept telling me I held up the project. That's what (raised his anger)," he angrily told Longo.

At that point, Longo threatened to have Fleuriet removed. Fleuriet said he could stay, but city attorney Ronnie Artigues Jr. said the meeting director could have anyone removed causing a disturbance.

Apparently in all of the confusion, Longo neglected to ask Fleuriet for his vote on approval of the claims docket. The original vote was rescinded, and the docket was approved by a 2-1 margin, with Fleuriet the dissenter.

Minutes later, Fleuriet and the other aldermen voted to put the pier project out for bid.

The aldermen were originally hoping to have the project completed by the middle of the summer. A new completion date has not been established.

Sound water to be tested

A contract totaling over $135,000 to study effects of the recent intrusion of fresh water, if any, on Mississippi's marine fisheries will be shared by the Department of Marine Resources (DMR) and Gulf Coast Research Laboratory, according to DMR Executive Director E. G. Woods.

"We are extremely pleased to receive these funds through the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers to document effects of this spring's opening of the Bonnet Carré Spillway on the marine habitat," Woods said.

The contract will provide funding for a study of biological sampling in the western part of the Mississippi Sound that began last April and continuing until November. Any effects of the fresh water on oysters, finfish, shrimp and crabs will be examined by comparing abundance, size and distribution of the animals during the period the Spillway was open to those times before and after the opening. Historical catch data from this area during past Spillway openings will also be compared.

"The Bonnet Carré is a flood control structure that shunts Mississippi River water into Lake Pontchartrain and eventually Mississippi Sound during extremely high river stage conditions to protect the levees around New Orleans," said DMR Fisheries Director W. S. Perett.

"Though the short-term effects may move marine animals out of the affected areas, past scientific studies have noted long-term beneficial effects of the nutrient-rich river water on estuarine systems and their fishery resources."

As Congress struggles to balance the budget and rethink our national spending priorities, I want to assure you that my priority will be to fund those agencies that fill needs, solve problems and improve the lives of our nation's citizens.

When it comes to how your tax dollars are spent, you should expect nothing less. It is better to light one candle than to curse the darkness.

To serve our country do know how important it is to show the citizens on a regular basis that we regard this stewardship as a sacred trust.

At the end of the day they are proud to know that they have made things better for their fellow citizens. They saw a need and they filled it.

maining one ordered to be served under house arrest.

Favre, the brother of Green Bay quarterback Brett Favre, was stopped by Hancock County sheriff's deputies on May 26 while driving with a suspended driver's license.

The Mississippi Department of Corrections was notified and a warrant was issued for Favre's arrest. Following a determination that Favre violated his house arrest, Walker reinstated the 15 year sentence, sending Favre to jail.

Favre will remain in the Harrison County jail until the hearing process is completed.

the vote out.

Now that the election is over, Lampley is eager to get started.

The Inauguration will be held next Thursday and July 8 is her first council meeting.

"I know it's going to be a lot of work," she said of her job as a city council member. "But, it's something I wanted and something I worked hard for. I'm eager to get started."

Lampley sees part of her function on the council to act as a mouthpiece for the people she represents.

"My role is to hear the concerns of the people," she explained. "They chose me to go to the council and bring (the council) the problems of Ward 3 and make changes."

During her campaigning, one of the biggest concerns of her constituents was the drug problem in the area.

Lampley said that while she can voice the concern, it will take the help of residents to make a difference in the battle against drugs.

"(I can) take the input of the residents in the ward, but they are going to have to want to see it changed," she explained. "The residents have to get involved, I can't do it (alone), and the police can only do so much."

Although those sentiments may be shared by others, the new council member hopes she may be able to come up with ideas which will bring about solutions.

"People have different ideas about doing things. If one isn't working, try something else," Lampley said. "Maybe my ideas can bring about a change."

Shrimp

shrimp, this year were unloading "10 boxes and under."

As a result, he predicted prices would escalate quickly if catches don't get any better.

"Last year, the 40 to 50 count shrimp were selling for 80 cents a pound," said Ladner. "This year, they're going for around $2.15 a pound."

Ladner said he has a fleet of about 70 that sells wholesale to him at Bayou Caddy, and other shrimping boats fishing for him in Louisiana and Alabama. His firm distributes seafood nationally and internationally.

"Overall, I'd say we're down about three-quarters of a million pounds compared to what we had taken in at this time last year," said Ladner.

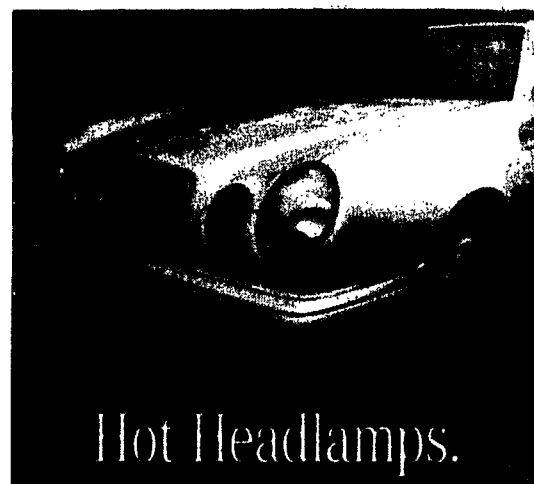

The cavernous cooler stood as silent witness to the poor catch.

"This cooler holds about 38 cartons each containing about 1800 pounds of shrimp," said Ladner.

Thursday, he estimated, "It's about a quarter full."

"It's got to get better," said Ladner. "It can't get much worse."

Mississippi School for Mathematics and Science

Some 147 students from all across the state representing 43 counties have been selected to attend the Mississippi School for Mathematics and Science.

New juniors will arrive in August on the campus of Mississippi University for Women.

The school is the nation's fourth state-supported high school for academically talented students. Located on the campus of The Mississippi University for Women in Columbus, MSMS offers students a unique learning experience based on their needs, interests, capabilities and past experiences. All classes are taught on a college preparatory level.

Students selected to attend MSMS do so at no major cost to their families. Support is provided each year by legislative appropriation. There are no fees for room, board or tuition.

MSMS students interested in applying for admission to the school must submit a formal application, take a standardized test (ACT, PLAN, SAT, PSAT) and have an interview.

Area students include Katy Marie Muir and Lacey Sahuque of Our Lady Academy; Sheryl Tasselin, Holly Massey and Meagen Newman of Pass Christian High School; and Sandy Ut of Hancock High School.

Pass student recognized

A Pass Christian junior is the first Mississippi State University student to receive a national Phi Eta Sigma Academic Scholarship.

Julie A. Ryan, a mathematics education major, recently was awarded the $2,000 scholarship for the 1997-98 school year. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Michael J. Ryan and a 1995 graduate of Our Lady Academy.

Her award was one of 66 presented this year by the scholastic honor society. Students in the organization's more than 300 university chapters were candidates for the scholarship.

CLUBS, AUXILIARY

American Legion Auxiliary Unit 139

American Legion Unit 139 Auxiliary met Thursday, June 12. Two guest speakers were in attendance to request donations for the Mississippi Department of Human Resources. Celeste Proulx and Connie Aime told the unit that Hancock County has 10 children in the Sunnybrook Group Home in Jackson. This is a part of the siblings group program, which will attempt to keep siblings together during a six-month period while awaiting for parents to stabilize their lives.

This is a new state law, effective Jan. 1. The law requires that parents be given only six months before the children are freed for permanent adoption. This will increase the number of children that can be adopted, and more adoptive parents will be needed. Foster homes are also needed.

There are not enough foster homes in the county to accommodate sibling groups, and Hope Haven is only available for 45 days as a temporary shelter. The Department is keeping Hope Haven full, but after 45 days, shelter must be found outside the county if no foster home is available.

Sunnybrook is a group home in Jackson. They are planning a summer vacation for the children and donations are needed to pay for travel expenses to Opryland in Nashville. The state only provides $260 to $600 per child per year. Lou Wilkerson moved that we donate to this cause. Seconded by Mattie North. Motion carried. Membership asked about the welfare of the child the unit adopted, along with his siblings in Mobile. He has now been freed for adoption, and adoptive parents are being sought for him and his sisters.

Election of officers was held for the 1997-98 year. Unit 139's new officer are Janette Ladner, president; Mattie North, first vice; Lucille Boudreaux, second vice; Lynne Shirley, secretary; Janet Aime, treasurer; Roz Weather, chaplain; Susan Piazza, historian; Billie Tudury, sergeant-at-arms; Hazel Wohlschlegel and Charlotte Sellers, color bearers; Joyce Bermond, Margie Schultz and Marian Foucha, executive committee.

President Jeanette Ladner announced that the unit still needs two more delegates for the state convention. Anyone interested, contact Ladner.

The convention starts Friday, July 1 and goes through July 13 at the Ramada Inn Southwest in Jackson. Post 139 will have a hospitality suite for state and national candidates, to be held in Commander Wayne Oliver's suite Friday night. The unit's candidates are Janet Aime, running for state chaplain; Phylis Moran, running for National Southern Region vice president; and John Wilkerson, running for National Executive Committee.

Aime announced items are still needed for the silent auction to be held at the convention. Anyone with items to donate should call her for pickup. Five door prizes are also needed.

Jerry Willett, a representative from the Boy Scouts, needs committee members to help with the Boy Scouts. Anyone interested in serving on a Boy Scout committee, contact Jeanette Ladner for Willett's number.

Elaine Cowie reported on the Juniors. There is no longer a Junior Auxiliary chapter in Unit 139 since there has been no participation, nor is there a candidate available for Miss Poppy. Little Miss Poppy will be Jackie Bufkin's granddaughter of Helen Bufkin. She has been active in all Junior activities such as nursing home visits, etc. Cowie requested funds with which to buy her the tiara, sashes and bouquet.

Lucille Boudreaux reported on veterans' activities. The fish fry was held in the VA Hospital recreation hall. It was supposed to be an outdoor affair, but rain interfered, and it was moved indoors. Post 139 members did all the cooking. There was a band. Over 100 veterans attended and there was dancing. A great time was had by all. Boudreaux reported that the men who prepared the food were very impressed with the affair. Moran pointed out that many of the men help all through the year. The auxiliary will write a letter to the Commander asking him to read it at a regular meeting to let them know how much the men's help in preparing food for this affair was appreciated.

Roz Weathers reported that the VA needs donations of many items and that they need volunteers for activities. They are also having a watermelon party in July and need volunteers and people to sing. Boudreaux will call the VA to get an exact list of their needs to present to the members.

Billie Tudury reported on the winners of the Americanism Essay contest: sixth grade, Bay Middle School, first place, Judd Fowles; second place, Jennifer Magee; third place Andrew Marks; sixth grade, Coast Episcopal, first place, MacAllister Marshall; second, William Mestayer; third, Robert Watson; Waveland Elementary, first place, Jessica Trotter; second, Cody Duprey; third, Chazz Coleman; Bay High School, first place, Carrie Wilcox; second, Jennie Boston; third, Kathleen Hancock.

Lou Wilkerson reported that the second scholarship was awarded to Shealey LaFontaine, Margie Schultz's granddaughter. Members will recall that the Spirit of Youth Scholarship was awarded to Danielle Lind.

Wilkerson reported on activities at Girls State. Three of the girls the unit supported did not attend, and one of the girls left in the middle of the convention. However, Rachel Speers won the Samsung $500 scholarship and this qualified her to compete for the larger scholarship in September, which could be $30,000-$40,000. She maintains a 4.4 grade average and is No. 1 in her class with very high ACT scores.

She is active in school and community affairs, and her grandfather was a Korean veteran, giving her an additional 10-point preference. Other Girls State delegates were Ashley Artigues, Giana Golden, Joy Gill and Megan Hemphill, Rachel Spear, Nadine Lewis, Angela Baldree and Ashley Morales.

Janet Aime and Susan Piazza attended the opening and the closing at Girls State, and Aime and Piazza told the unit that they should be very proud of member Lou Wilkerson, who is the Girls State director. She had 566 girls under her charge.

Wilkerson reminded all members to give her their community service hours.

Mattie North reminded members that it is due time. She needs your dues for members and junior members. She encouraged the unit to recruit new members.

In August there will be a need for three cakes. Volunteers are needed.

Roz Weathers requested to know of members who are sick or bereaved so that cards can be sent. Barbara Cambre won the 50/50.

On June 5, the ladies from Clement R. Bontemps American Legion Auxiliary Unit 139 visited the Dixie White House Nursing Center in Pass Christian and entertained the resident.

Jane Lance, director of activities, had the residents assembled in the Day Room. Lena Mae Oustalet played the piano as Roslyn Weathers led the singing. Mrs. Lance and the residents thanked the ladies for the entertainment.

On June 17, Unit 139 ladies visited the Woodland Village Nursing Center in Pass Christian. Judy Jackson, director of activities, had the residents waiting in the recreation room. Lena Mae Oustalet played the piano, and Roslyn Weathers led the singing of the residents' favorite songs.

On June 19, the ladies from Unit 139 visited the Hotel Reed Nursing Center for the monthly birthday party. Jackie Burnett, director of activities, had the room filled with residents. The June celebrants also thanked the ladies for remembering their birthdays with song and presents.

Lena Mae Oustalet played the piano, and Roslyn Weathers led the singing. The staff served refreshments.

Pets' love, devotion add to owners' health

While eating apples each day is supposed to cut down on doctor visits, a more fun way to do the same thing is to own a pet.

Research has shown that people benefit in many ways from having a pet. Companion animals have more consistent behavior and give unconditional affection that humans rarely offer.

A survey conducted by the American Animal Hospital Association found that more than half the pet owners surveyed, if stranded on a deserted island, would choose the companionship of their pet over another human. Such is the role pets play in human companionship and affection.

But more than offering friendship, keeping a pet has positive physical effects. Dr. Lisa Sharp, a Mississippi Veterinary Medical Association veterinarian at South Panola Veterinary Hospital, sees pet owners benefit from having a pet.

"Having a pet helps decrease blood pressure because it relaxes and soothes people," Sharp said. "It lowers blood pressure as owners pet, hold and play with them."

Elderly people who have lost a spouse often turn to a pet for companionship. Animals have a way of filling the void left by the death of a loved one.

"It gives them something to care for and something that relies on them," Sharp said. "The responsibility of having the pet gives them something to do and makes them feel worthwhile."

In her practice in Batesville, Sharp has watched changes in the demeanor of elderly people who have lost a spouse. Caring for a pet improves their outlook on life.

"They view the pet as more than just a dog or cat. It's their friend or companion," Sharp said.

Companion animals are also especially beneficial to sick children and those with a terminal illness.

"It takes their mind off their own problems as they become more concerned with this animal and how to properly care for it," she said.

Sharp told of a young girl with terminal brain cancer who wanted a boxer puppy. Her parents got her one, and the girl who previously did not want to get out of bed began to interact with the puppy as much as her strength and health allowed.

Pets provide health benefits in several other ways. Playing with and walking pets gives exercise that many people do not get otherwise. Pets are fun to watch and people often laugh at their antics.

"Laughing helps, since mental attitude is a big percentage of good health," Sharp said. "You laugh with the animal and that's good for you."

In 1992, the Baker Medical Research Institute in Melbourne, Australia did a comparative health study of 5,741 people. It found that pet owners had lower blood pressure, and plasma triglyceride and cholesterol levels than did non-owners. The statistics held true regardless of the person's body mass or smoking habits.

This study, like many others, concluded that pet ownership truly does seem to have a positive impact on a person's health.

But pet ownership is not for everyone, and each person's situation and ability to care for an animal should be considered. The type of pet also depends on the person.

Bay-Waveland Jaycees

The puppet show is based on Mr. Boudreaux, his wife, Miss Marie and their son, Toby. They will be bringing along the family pet, an alligator named Alfons, who frequently causes mischief.

The Cajun characters are from Schadler's book Welcome to Bayou Town, with Chandler as writer, narrator, puppet-maker and puppeteer. She has presented puppet shows in schools and other venues throughout Mississippi for the past seven years.

TRAVEL & ENTERTAINMENT

THE SEA COAST ECHO - SUNDAY, JUNE 22, 1997-5B

Mississippi Gulf Coast offers spectacular summer events

The Mississippi Gulf Coast is offering another exciting and fun-filled schedule of events for the 1997 summer. In addition to the 26 miles of sugar-white sand beaches, great deep-sea fishing and over 10,000 rooms available that include hotel/motels, condominiums and bed and breakfasts, the Coast also continues to bring just the right mix of Southern charm and Las Vegas-style entertainment to its visitors.

Some of the highlights as well as a complete calendar of summer events are listed below:

The Gulf Coast's 4th of July weekend would not be complete if it were not for the Annual Deep Sea Fishing Rodeo. This will be the 49th year that the Coast has celebrated the bounty that our waterways provide. The rodeo features tons of fish on display as well as a beauty pageant and fireworks display. For details, call (601) 863-2713.

scholarships
James Tagge, a member of Pass Christian High School's Class of '87, was the recipient of Trinity Episcopal Church's $1,000 T. N. Fiddler Scholarship. In addition, he was awarded the Episcopal Diocese of Mississippi's Mistico Scholarship for $1,000. At Pass Christian High School, he was awarded the Tandy Technology Scholars Award for excellence in math, science and computers and the Creative Writing Award.

Pass places in math contest

Marilyn Dedeaux's 6th grade advanced math class at Pass Christian Middle School placed 15th out of 122 schools in the Alabama-Mississippi-Louisiana Mathematics League Competition. Each of the 30 Pass Christian Middle School math students selected by Dedeaux to participate were required to solve 40 problems, including algebra and statistics problems. Their high percentage of correct answers made Pass Christian Middle School the only public school in Mississippi that placed in the top 25. One of the competitors, 6th grade student Nick Beale (above with Dedeaux), ranked second in Harrison County's region, which includes Copiah, Hancock, Hinds, Jackson, Jones, Lincoln and Rankin counties. The class, as a whole, also ranked second in this region. Those who competed were Cassie Alexander, Nicholas Beale, Fergus Bradley, Charmese Broach, Debra Burke, Kendra Cuevas, Brandon Cutrer, April Dubuisson, Jared Graham, Yen Hoang, Kathryn John, Jennifer Ladner, John Ladner, DeLise McKay, Joanna Miller, Margaret Montgomery, Heather Mullins, John Nguyen, Lisa Nguyen, Steven Nguyen, Wesley Oliver, Sherita Paige, Anthony Rhoades, Jazmin Rials, Cassidi Shelton, Anna Smith, Susanna Smith, Brad Steube, Thomas Wagner, Dana Wilson and Jason Winstead.

Three win scholarships

For the first time in the NASA College Scholarship Fund's 16-year history, children of John C. Stennis Space Center employees have won NASA scholarships.
Each year, NASA awards only five $8,000 scholarships among numerous entries from each of the 10 NASA centers — and Stennis received three.
Those selected were Laila Hlaas, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Hlaas of Long Beach. Hlaas is a former SSC center director. Laila is a 1997 graduate of Coast Episcopal High School and plans to attend Rice University to pursue a degree in electrical engineering.
Virginia Ann Miller is the daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Richard Miller of Slidell. Dr. Miller is the chief of the Earth System Science Office at SSC.
Virginia is a 1997 graduate of Slidell High School. She plans to attend Duke University and major in natural sciences.
Christine Andres is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Vincent Andres of Long Beach. Andres is a program analyst in the Center Operations and Support Directorate. Christine is a 1997 graduate of Coast Episcopal High School and plans to attend Brown University to pursue a degree in bioengineering.
The three were among 82 students from across the country who were competing for the award. Part of the requirements for eligibility was that the students had to be children of current or former NASA employees as well as being pursuing a career in either the science or engineering field.

The Lord of Peace

In troubled times with war on the horizon we all want peace. Where will we find peace? Who will bring peace? The Bible describes Jesus Christ saying, "He is our peace" (Ephesians 2:14). The Bible gives this model prayer. "How may the Lord of peace Himself continually grant you peace in every circumstance" (2 Thessalonians 3:16). This same Lord Jesus Christ was prophesied to be the "Prince of Peace" (Isaiah 9:6). When Christ entered the world, born as a babe in Bethlehem, the angels declared, "And on earth peace among men" (Luke 2:14). Yes, Jesus Christ is the source and author of peace. He is the Lord of peace.
Yet, there is so much effort expended in the world today trying to achieve peace without Christ. Men and women search for personal peace of heart and mind while they disregard Christ who is the Prince of peace. Husbands and wives try to patch up faltering marriages and bring peace to their homes without Christ who is Himself peace. Governors and legislators try to quell the violence in their states and cities without Christ, the author of peace. Presidents and prime ministers seek peace between nations without the source of peace, Jesus Christ.
Don't be fooled. We cannot gain individual, marital, national, or world peace if we continue to ignore Jesus Christ, the Lord of peace.

Things To Do Today

Don't take everything too seriously. Develop a sense of humor. Smile often. Keep a happy attitude. Buy someone a cup of coffee or a soft drink. Help someone out and listen to their concerns. Compliment someone on how nice they look. Talk and listen to an older person. Make "please", "thank you", and "I'm sorry", a regular part of your vocabulary. During your next conversation, let the other person talk more than you. Before you talk, be sure that what you say is kind and true. When someone says something mean to you; remember that a soft word turns back anger. Be responsible for your actions. Don't wait for someone else to do something — you do it. Pray often, talk to God, and develop a personal relationship with Him. Before any decision or important event, ask God for His guidance and help. Be good to your family, because they know you better than others. Remember that we are also part of God's family. Love one another as God loves us.

Do for others what you want them to do for you...

J. Michael
HAIR STUDIO

... at the Bay

J. Michael Hair Studio offers clients something quite different. If the idea of a noisy, impersonal salon does not appeal to you, then you should call J. Michael Hair Studio.

Michael encourages clients to relax on the porch of his beachfront studio while a consultation determines what hair style and color is right for you. Michael's studio is located on the corner of Beach Boulevard and Bodge, just beyond Buccaneer State Park. Michael gives each of his clients his undivided attention, personal best and the benefit of his 20 years experience in hair styling.

Michael began his career in hairstyling in Nashville, Tennessee and then moved to Slidell, Louisiana where he owned and operated a very successful salon. Many of his clients followed him to New Orleans, where he worked in a salon on St. Charles Avenue at the riverbend. He then moved to an exclusive salon in The Fairmont Hotel in the French Quarter. The peace and tranquility of the Mississippi Gulf Coast eventually lured Michael to his present location in Lakeshore.

Michael's philosophy of using only quality products and giving personalized attention, coupled with his extensive training ensures a satisfied client.

Michael's specialties include spiral perms, weaving and streaking. Michael is also an expert at updos and braiding. He will be happy to make himself available for styling to bridal parties the day of the "big event".

If having your hair styled in a comfortable, cozy atmosphere while enjoying a beautiful beach view sounds good to you, then call J. Michael Hair Studio for an appointment. Appointments are available Tuesday through Saturday by calling 463-1644.
